

FINDERS WAY

Home of great research

WOW! Now I know I'm a Magpie that wants to be a Bower bird. I'll work on that! There are also some key steps I need to follow to search effectively. If I stick to this I'm sure I'll get better results. Identifying keywords and coming up with a good search strategy is vital. I don't want to be a dinosaur.

One Search is a much better place to start than Google. There are so many good search tools out there. I'll be sure to visit the LibGuides again to help me choose the best one.

It's a really good idea skim read things I've found, especially the abstract & conclusions to help me refine my searching. Using the reference list to help find other scholarly sources is a great idea.

Sometimes I might need to narrow down my search and it's really important to remember to download my sources to my research file.
